

New Orleans Humorist To Address Lions Tuesday

TWO NEW LENOX WOMEN HURT, ONE SERIOUSLY, IN AUTO ACCIDENT

ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

Something to worry about... an actress at a party lost a cigarette lighter. Of course, it was only a shoddy little thing—cost a bare $100 or so. And still we claim to be civilized... and so many in need!

Since coming here I have been riding around... meeting a lot of nice people. They were nice to me. The kindly greetings have been and are appreciated... thank all of you. As time goes on I hope to meet everybody around. You make me feel that this will be a fine community for Mrs. Gedeist and Clarence and John.

Of course, I shall TRY to behave—well, partly, at any rate, enough to get by. I hope I'm not watched too closely—some one might find me sneaking out of the office late at night. And then, why isn't that editor home with his family? S-s-s-h! Let you in on a secret—working late, getting adjusted to the harness.

Pity so many persons do not like to behave. Some one said it's because of "original sin." Well, some of them surely do have some original sins... wonder how they think them up. If you find out, let me know, please.

FACT: If more grown people properly behaved there would be fewer adult criminals. Good behavior by adults for two or three generations could do wonders for this confused world of ours. But let's make it closer home: it would make a better community for US.

It's a good idea to think about US... because if we are good enough we will spread the idea BY WHAT WE SAY AND DO and naturally others will follow.

Loose, vulgar speech is at the bottom of much of our troubles. We can't be nasty-mouthed, vulgar, and expect good to grow from our corruption. Children cannot respect virtue when virtue is the subject of ridicule and hilarity by parents and others who should know better.

Good crops and good people must come from the right beginning.

Gerodimos-Lambrecht Marriage In Chicago

Miss Victoria Gerodimos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gerodimos, of Flossmoor, and Mr. Paul Lambrecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lambrecht of Frankfort, were married in St. Augustana Lutheran church of Chicago, Sunday, March 2.

The Rev. Rudolph Johnson, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar lighted with cathedral candles in tall, seven-branched candelabra, and decked with vases of white calla lilies and stocks.

Miss Lillian Collins of Chicago Heights accompanied Mr. Arthur Lambrecht of Frankfort as he sang, "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was dressed in traditional white satin with a heavy lace off-the-shoulder bertha and yoke of illusion net, sweeping train, finger-tip veil caught with a tiara of orange blossoms and carrying a shower bouquet of white gladioli arranged around a center of orchids. She was given in marriage by her father.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Miss Marge Gerodimos, and the bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Gerodimos, another sister, Miss Kathryn Lambrecht, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Marie Sisk of Boston, Mass., and Miss Ruth Michaels of Libertyville, classmates of the bride. Their pale green tulle gowns were designed with extremely full skirts, bustles, and short puffed sleeves. They wore matching headbands and gauntlets, and carried white gladioli.

LaVerne Brown of Joliet, served as best man. Ushering were Dale Warrington, of Detroit, Mich., Wesley Thurlow, Robert Semitekol and Theodore Berst of Joliet.

Both mothers of the couple wore navy blue crepe dresses with white orchid corsages.

A reception was held in the Shoreland Hotel, Chicago, for approximately 350 guests.

The bride is a graduate of Hyde Park high school and Barat College at Lake Forest. The bridegroom, a veteran of 30 months service with the army air force, was graduated from the Joliet township high school and attended Joliet Junior College.

After a honeymoon spent at Excelsior Springs, Mo., the couple will be at home to their friends in the H. S. Breidert apartment on Center road in Frankfort.

Mrs. James Sherwood of New Lenox and her mother, Mrs. Edward Lamaureux, were injured last week in an auto accident near Palos Park.

Mrs. Lamaureux is reported as having received a concussion when her head struck the windshield, bruised arms and legs, broken left ankle, right foot bone chipped, and cuts on her face.

Mrs. Sherwood's injuries were confined mostly to a leg injury and shock. She and her mother were taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet, where Mrs. Sherwood was released after examination. Mrs. Lamaureux continues in the hospital, but visitors are not permitted to see her, although it is reported she is getting along well.

The accident resulted, reports indicated, when Mrs. Sherwood's car hit an icy spot in the road while trying to avoid another car.

Mrs. Sherwood and Mrs. Lamaureux were on their way to Chicago to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lamaureux's sister.

August Pfleger Critically Injured

August Pfleger of Mokena was critically injured Wednesday morning in Chicago just before he was to board a street car to go to work. He is in St. Bernard's hospital, Chicago with a deep skull fracture and injured face.

According to information received by his wife, who was called to the hospital a short time after he was taken to the hospital, Mr. Pfleger was waiting for a State street car at 63rd street, near Englewood station, when he was hit by a truck.

The injured man is employed by Bowman dairies and works at the company's plant at Cottage Grove and Harvard Street. He has been employed by Bowman 36 years, 25 years of the period in the Chicago plant. He is 60 years of age.

X-rays are to be taken today to determine the full extent of the injuries.

Mrs. Pfleger was taken to the hospital by Barney Hostert of Cooper and Hostert, Mokena.

Bobzin-Swinford In Busy Meet

The Bobzin-Swinford Post of the American Legion held its monthly meeting Monday evening in the village hall in Frankfort. Oscar Russell, second division organization officer, addressed the members. He gave the post a broader idea of what the American Legion stands for and what it represents.

Arthur Hurley of Mokena was accepted as a new member in the post. It was voted to set aside 10 per cent of the post's funds as a service fund. E. Vollrath, H. Miller, D. Carroll were appointed as a committee to set up a financial system for the post. The committee for the social meeting to be held Monday, March 24, includes L. Luhring, C. Heisner, R. Mitchell and E. Nissen. It was also decided to have a dance and an award to be held on Memorial Day.

Come one, come all to the VFW St. Patrick's Day dance, March 15 at the Saenger Ballroom, Tinley Park. There will be fun for all! Door prizes! Refreshments! And, to top it all off, Dick Singer and his Nine Piece Society Orchestra.

James Bells Celebrate Golden Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. James Bell celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in the home of their son Everett, Sunday afternoon.

One hundred and seventy four friends and relatives attended Open House in honor of the Bells from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and in the evening from 7 until 9 o'clock. Preceding the open house, a family dinner was served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bell.

Assisting with the open house were the Mesdames Walter Haas, Clayton Cleveland, Loren Sass, Alphonse Kohl, Glenn Peterson; Edward Sproat and Miss Agnes Haley.

The bride of fifty years wore a black crepe dress accented with gold clips, when she greeted the guests. Her corsage was of Jonquils.

The Bells were married March 10, 1897. Mr. Bell was born in Canada and has been engaged in farming for many years. Mrs. Bell was born in Homer township. They have lived in Marley for the past ten years. They have three sons, Ralph and Everett of Marley, and Frank of Homer township, and six grandchildren.

The serving table was centered with a large wedding cake and appointed with gold tapers held in crystal candelabra. The program was presented in the afternoon and again in the evening. Mrs. Paul Saunders sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" in the afternoon and in the evening she sang "Love's Old Sweet Song". Mr. Daniel Sass favored in the evening with the "Anniversary Song". Mrs. Edward Sproat furnished the accompaniment.

Mrs. E. W. Bush read the poem which she had written and dedicated to the couple: "Golden Wedding Day," which followed FROB's OINTD.

Miss Lois Bell also read a poem, written by Mrs. Bush in behalf of the grandchildren: "Fifty Years Ago."

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stielow and Miss Martha Bell of Cary, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith of Elgin, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Storm of DeKalb. Mr. and Mrs. received many gifts, flowers, cards and were presented with a purse of money from the community.

Hundred Visitors At Deist's Party

Sunday, March 9, was a happy day for the Henry Deist family, when approximately 100 friends and relatives came to help them celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary.

The dining table was attractive with a hand crocheted cloth which their daughter Pearl Oetter had made, with crystal settings. Centering the table was a beautiful bouquet of yellow jonquils and blue horizon iris, flanked on either side with tall yellow tapers in crystal holders.

Throughout the afternoon, the Misses Janet Roberts, Betty Lou Deist and Mrs. Glen Warning, poured. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deist came from Chicago. He is a veteran of four years of service. They brought a gorgeous bouquet and also his camera. He took a number of group pictures.

At 5 o'clock a picnic dinner was served on quartette tables to the immediate family members, including Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Kohlhaugen. The latter is Mrs. Deist's sister.

Visitors came from Joliet, Tinley Park, Manhattan; Whiting, Ind.; Chicago; Chicago Heights; Green Garden; and Frankfort. Many cards, flowers and other gifts including money, were showered upon the couple.

WRITER POINTS TO EDUCATIONAL DECLINE DUE TO PARSIMONY

Education in America has fallen on evil days—evil in the sense of lost prestige and impotence to do the job it is supposed to do.

The plight of our schools is the fault of every American citizen. As a people we are not really concerned about education. Why aren't we? Who will rouse us from our lethargy? Even a United States Chamber of Commerce investigation finds it difficult to dent the public consciousness with the report that there is a direct relation between the quality of education in a community and its economic prosperity.

Each year we spend less for education, than we do for amusement, for tobacco, for liquor; or for beauty aids. These things are indulgences, not investments. They do not help equip our children for the responsibilities to be met in years to come. We spend more to maintain prisons and feeble-minded institutions than we do on our schools. Many people are making the grave

MOKENA BASKETBALLERS

Last Friday's basketball contests were the most interesting and exciting played thus far at the Mokena school gym, and the fans saw our Mokena Girls turn on the pressure in the last quarter to win over the Girls of New Lenox 24 to 20.

The second game on the giant bill was close, the young fast Matteson Lights against our Mokena Lights. Plays were fast and the lead changed several times. Mokena lost 33 to 27. Dexter, of Matteson and Jim Walsh of Mokena shared scoring honors with 18 points each.

In the third game the Mokena Heavies defeated the favorite, Matteson. The heavies were behind until the last four minutes, but rallied to outscore Matteson 14 to 8 and win the game 32 to 30! The entire Mokena team shared scoring honors and played brilliant defense to win.

Sunday Mokena teams went to Frankfort and split a two game bill. In the first game Frankfort Lights took a commanding lead and won by 64 to 32. The second game was different.

The fast break and close defense proved too much for Frankfort and Mokena won 60 to 53. "Scone" Benson took scoring honors with 22 points, while Jim Raffaut had 10.

The final home game of the season is scheduled against Hazelcrest next Wednesday evening; however, the game may be changed to Friday, the 21st instead; if so, proper notification will be given. First game starts at 7:30 P. M.; second at 8:45!

Des et For Tinley Park's Homecoming

Shortly after Tinley Park's homecoming celebration this year, two persons will step into an American Airlines flagship at Chicago with the destination Mexico City.

That is to be the grand prize at the celebration scheduled for June 27 to 29, inclusive, it was announced Wednesday by Charles Hollwedel of Tinley Park.

The homecoming is sponsored by 14 hometown organizations the members and officials of which are devoting enthusiastic effort to making this year's affair a record-breaker for entertainment for the public.

Miller Amusement Enterprises have been secured to assure entertainment on a scope large enough to fit the requirements of the thousands expected to participate.

The celebration will center around the Saenger ballroom and grove, where ample space is afforded for the gigantic program partially prepared and to be completed at an early date.

All civic organizations in Tinley Park are actively supporting the program to make this year's affair the top of all homecomings.

In addition to the round trip to Mexico for two persons, entertainment and expenses will be provided for. Immediately upon arrival in the Mexican capital, the prize winners will be given a sightseeing tour around the ancient city through courtesy of American Airlines.

Expenses while in the city will be covered by $100 prize money, thus assuring happy living and thorough enjoyment while the prize winners are enjoying an experience which can be found nowhere else as in Mexico City. (Editor's note: Later we will publish information about the interesting points in Mexico City which will be visited by the winners making the trip.)

Groups working on the homecoming celebration later will make other details public.

The Lion's Club is St. Patrick's annual dinner and gala affair in Frankfort next Tuesday evening.

All men are warned that failure to wear a "bit o' green" will bring the wrath of the "Tail Twister" upon the offenders. And warning also issued that the "wearin' o' the green" does not mean green neckties, which most likely would get tangled up with the Tail Twisters. The latter are the fun makers of the club, and they are rated as being very good.

Ticket sellers have been telling the ladies, too, that some green must be worn—that it is quite a greenish affair.

While there will be much fun, and good eating, too, at the dinner in St. Peter's Reformed church parlors at 645, the committee has also prepared a program of intellectual merit.

The principal speaker for the meeting will be Andre Mouton, commissioner of the Port of New Orleans. Mr. Mouton is ranked as a highly interesting speaker and is well known and in wide demand, both for his humor and his understanding presentation of the more serious side of life.

The committee has announced also, that Lion District Governor Robert Rote of Rock Island, is expected to attend and take part in the evening's program.

Approximately 200 are expected to attend the dinner and the evening's entertainment.

Officers of the club are George C. Sangmeister, president; William Breidert, secretary; John Luhring, treasurer.

New Lenox Board To Exercise Option

(Editor's note: The following was prepared for the News-Bulletin as a report on the subject presented.)

The Board of Education, School District 122, New Lenox, at a special meeting held March 8, adopted a resolution to exercise its right of option on the Holstein property as authorized at the election of February 1, 1947. At the same meeting it was decided to defer the building program authorized at the same election until some future date.

This latter decision was based on the information given Superintendent Oster by Father Rheinholdt Kias, that St. Jude's parish would positively start building their school within a few weeks and will open their school by September of this year.

Inasmuch as quite a few of the pupils from the New Lenox grade school will attend this new parish school, it will reduce the school's enrollment and immediate expansion will not be necessary. Therefore only enough bonds will be issued to acquire the property.

The present board's policy in regard to consolidation of schools is a reaffirmation of its approval of the principle of consolidation. However, as the recommendation of any changes in the present school districts is the responsibility of the township survey committee, and as the Board of Education of District 122 recognizes that the members of this committee are men of foresight and integrity, it, the Board of Education of District No. 122, stands ready and willing to act and abide by their plans for reorganization whenever and whatever they may be.

Senate Committee Chairmen
Are Experienced Legislators

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles on new congressional committees and their chairmen.)

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON.—Experienced legislators are at the helm of senate committees of the 80th congress, a survey disclosing that the committee chairmen have served an average of 11 years in the upper house. Their length of service ranges from four years for Sen. Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia to 28 years for Sen. Arthur Capper of Kansas.

In age, the new Republican chairmen average 61 years, five years older than senators as a whole. Youngest of the group is Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, who is 48, while the oldest is 81-year-old Capper.

The list of committees and their chairmen continues:

Agriculture

ARTHUR CAPPER (Kas.), chairman of the senate agriculture and forestry committee, is at 81 the oldest man in the senate and ranks second only to Kenneth McKellar (Tenn.) in length of service. He was elected to the senate in 1919, after serving two terms as governor of Kansas.

Now dean of the farm bloc, Capper has been an important figure in agricultural legislation for the last 20 years. He voted for the McNary-Haugen bill in 1927, the agricultural adjustment bill in 1933, soil conservation in 1936, crop insurance in 1938. He voted in 1942 to include the cost of farm labor in computing parity prices and for the Russell amendment to the same effect in 1946. Capper was for the Smoot-Hawley tariff in 1930. In 1934 he voted for reciprocal trade agreements but by 1940 he was against extending them. He supported creation of TVA in 1933 but is against the proposal for a Missouri Valley authority. In a recent speech he announced that the parity price support program needs revision to prevent accumulation of unsalable surpluses.

Capper has a wide influence in the grain belt through a number of newspapers and magazines which he supervises from Washington. He entered the publishing field by becoming a typesetter for the Topeka Daily Capital, which he now owns. His other publications are Capper's Weekly, Kansas Farmer and Mail and Breeze, Household magazine, Capper's Farmer, Missouri Ruralist, Ohio Farmer, Pennsylvania Farmer, Michigan Farmer and Kansas City Kansan. He also owns radio station WIBW in Topeka.

Public Works

CHAPMAN REVERCOMB (W. Va.), still serving his first term, becomes chairman of the public works committee, which will take over the old committees on commerce and public buildings and grounds and non-personnel functions of post offices and post roads.

Revercomb is 51 years old. He was born in Covington, Va., served in the army in World War I, returned to Covington to practice law and moved to Charleston, W. Va., in 1922. He was a member of the Republican state executive committee from 1932 to 1936 and was president of the Young Republican league of West Virginia from 1934 to 1936. He was elected to the senate in 1942. He is a former president of Charleston Bar association.

On public works matters, Revercomb voted against an appropriation to continue the national resources planning board in 1943, against an appropriation of 75 million dollars for a postwar planning fund in 1945, for the full employment bill in 1945 and against an amendment the same year to reduce federal aid for airports from 500 million dollars to 250 million dollars.

On most issues, Revercomb has followed Republican party policy. He voted with the majority of his party on 82 per cent of controversial roll calls in the 79th congress.

Judiciary

ALEXANDER WILEY (Wis.), chairman of the judiciary committee, is a regular Republican who voted with his party 85 per cent of the time in the 79th congress. In the second session he was absent for only 10 per cent of roll call votes.

One of the first problems before the judiciary committee under Wiley will be advisability of repealing emergency war powers not affected by the President's proclamation of the end of hostilities. In a report to the Republican conference, Wiley stated that, in view of the "continued national emergency," the "varied and complex nature" of the wartime controls and the "chaotic effects" of immediate termination of controls, the problem should be studied by the senate committees concerned with the various types of controls before the judiciary committee draws up overall recommendations.

Wiley, born in 1884 in the town of Chippewa Falls, where he still lives, is a lawyer. He also owns and operates a farm and has been a director of a local bank. His only public office before his election to the senate in 1938 was that of district attorney for Chippewa county, which he held from 1909 to 1915.

The judiciary committee deals with courts and judges, anti-trust problems, bankruptcy laws, patents, immigration, civil liberties and constitutional amendments.

Interstate and Foreign Commerce

WALLACE H. WHITE JR. (Me.), new chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce committee, is one of the few Republicans who have had previous experience as a congressional committee chairman. White was chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries from 1927 to 1931. In addition to transportation and general bills affecting commerce, White's committee handles radio and communications, civil aeronautics and merchant marine bills.

White was also minority leader of senate Republicans in the 79th congress and now comes majority leader in addition to commerce committee chairman. He was strenuously opposed for the committee job by Clyde M. Reed, (Rep., Kas.) who was represented as having the support of the railroads while White was backed by the radio industry.

White is 69 years old and has been in congress continuously since 1916, when he was elected to the house. He went to the senate in 1930, and is the third ranking Republican senator in seniority. Before entering congress, White practiced law in Washington and Maine and was a senatorial secretary.

Labor and Public Welfare

ROBERT A. TAFT (Ohio), new chairman of the labor and public welfare committee, has endorsed changes in labor laws to enable "employer and employee to meet on a fairly equal basis." Specifically, he will seek enactment of legislation to hold unions responsible for contract violations, to require union financial reports, to establish mediation machinery outside the labor department to outlaw secondary boycotts, and to exempt foremen from the Wagner labor relations act. Most of these provisions were in the vetoed Case bill last spring.

Taft, a 57-year-old lawyer, is the son of former Pres. William Howard Taft. He served in the Ohio house of representatives from 1921 to 1926 and in the state senate in 1931 and 1932. He was elected to the United States senate in 1936.

The labor and public welfare committee will handle bills on education, health, veterans' hospitals and medical care, in addition to the subjects covered by its name.

ERA OF FANTASY

WASHINGTON.—It is difficult for the average person to understand the amazing vistas opened up by science during World War II and realize that the unbelievable era of Buck Rogers fantasy is now actually here.

The most obvious development was the atomic bomb. Not as well known but perhaps even more fantastic are the numerous secrets of the earth which the bomb's invention also opened. For the past three years, for instance, geoclastic scientists have been working on a project for setting off a controlled chain reaction in the crust of the earth.

This project is described by scientists as a hydrogen chain reaction, in which the hydrogen in the surface of the earth would be made to burn in a slow but continuous stream. Simultaneously, these scientists are reported to be preparing a means for speedily extinguishing such blazes.

Fantastic as this may sound, it is only a small phase of the field which science opened up at a time when the government, in desperation and out of fear of what enemy scientists might be doing, gave American scientists full freedom to work.

An earth-crust chain reaction now is deemed a reasonable possibility and might mean the end for a country even as large as Russia. A chain reaction of this type could carry across mountains, through ice and snow, searing everything in its path with the relentless force of a gigantic, fire-burning steam roller.

American scientists warn that what they are working on also is being worked on by scientists all over the world. No nation has a monopoly on knowledge. What American science has is a head start and the "know-how."

DISLIKES MODERN ART

President Truman is strictly a conservative when it comes to modern art. "Ham and eggs" art he calls the paintings of the surrealists, the futurists and the cubists. The chief executive wants his art down-to-earth and easy to understand. He likes it to be beautiful, not shocking, and to represent something. Reporters saw an example of the art Mr. Truman loves recently, when he gave them a private showing of "The Peacemakers"—a painting by George Healy which the President had purchased for the White House for $10,000.

MARSHALL'S 'FILIBUSTER'

GOP congressmen are accusing General Marshall—half-jokingly—of being just as good at filibustering as Senator Bilbo. Members of the house foreign affairs committee say that in their closed-door session with the new secretary of state, he kept on talking until just before the bell rang calling congress into session. By that time there was no chance for them to fire any embarrassing questions.

Several Republican congressmen came to the secret committee session primed with questions on Palestine and Russia. However, Marshall, with one eye on the clock, gave a brilliant monologue on foreign affairs for more than an hour.

Marshall's monologue, however, gave a well-rounded picture of U. S. foreign policy. Here are the highlights:

RUSSIA—The Byrnes policy of being fair but firm with Russia will be continued. Marshall has given this policy careful study and is convinced Byrnes was right.

AUSTRIA—Will be the first treaty to be taken up in Moscow, largely because it is "in the nature of a liberated area."

GERMANY—Within three years the German people should become economically unified and self-sufficient, requiring no more loans or food from the U. S. A.

PALESTINE—The United States must be more cautious regarding Palestine now that Britain has agreed to lay this problem in the United Nations lap. Instead of giving advice regarding Palestine, the U. S. A. now will have to act.

EUROPEAN RELIEF—Food continues to be the greatest stabilizing influence in the world, and the United States must continue to feed the world—perhaps for some years to come.

CHINA—"I am somewhat disillusioned about the Chinese situation," Marshall commented. He spent more time on this subject than any other, remarking with a laugh that he felt more at home when talking about China. His off-the-record discussion, however, included little he had not already stated publicly.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and son, James, have signed contracts to help in the scripting and to give technical advice for a screen biography of the late President. Producers will be Kennedy-Buchanan productions, affiliated with Columbia. . . . Allen Dulles and his brother, John Foster Dulles, of the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, have been retained by Eric Johnston's Motion Picture association as advisers for the Geneva international trade conference in April.

TONY ZALE, middleweight ruler, starred in the best ring fight of 1946 with a dozen miles to spare. His hurricane meeting with Rocky Graziano happened to be one of those thrillers you won't see twice in a lifetime.

There was no other fight even close to this one. I can't recall any other fighter who ever showed more intestinal fortitude than Zale showed that September night, when he came out of a foggy dream-land to knock out Graziano. It so happens that Zale is in the toughest division of them all.

Tony Zale

Among those after his middleweight crown you'll find Jake LaMotta, Marcel Cerdan, George Abrams, Charley Burley and one or two others—all tough. Graziano, the toughest of the lot, has had his license revoked in New York, but the National Boxing association has ruled that he can fight in any place under NBA's jurisdiction. This gives Rocky a lot of territory to swing his lethal fists in.

Zale had been away from ring action so long when he met Graziano that his handicap was known to be a heavy one. Various crowds had seen too many baseball and football players from the service show a startling lack of old-time form, including speed and timing. Zale had been away longer than most, close to four years.

So when Graziano knocked him down early in the fight and then had him dazed, bewildered and badly battered, his reign apparently was over. But Zale down the stretch proved several things. He proved that he was dead game and could take the hardest punch the hard-hitting Graziano could throw. He also proved that he had a punch of his own. He proved that he knew how to fight—and what to do in a storm.

Faces Tough Competition

With more time in which to get ready, it stands to reason that Zale should be a better fighter in 1947 than he was in 1946. His win over Graziano gave him greater confidence, for one thing. He is also sure to be in better all-around physical shape. Yet in this present middleweight outfit no one is safe. Tony is surrounded by a pretty rough crew, the best in any other weight division, and he will have to be better than good to keep his crown.

LaMotta is a rough and ready customer who won't be any soft mark. LaMotta is a hardy man to hurt and he also can hurt on his own. Cerdan made a promising debut over here and he should be better on his next visit, when he has a longer time to become acclimated and to get in better physical condition. There is no Stanley Ketchel, Harry Greb or Mickey Walker hanging around the premises, but there is more class in this section than the ring has known for many years. Just how the tangle will be unraveled is another guess. LaMotta must be given a chance and so must Cerdan if he can repeat his opening performance, or show improvement.

In addition to the leaders named, Jersey Jones still insists that his man Burley can slash his way through the entire list.

With the heavyweight bunch outside of Joe Louis, in such a sad state, it begins to look as if the middleweights must take over a big part of the show. But as good as many of his challengers are, they will find Zale none too easy to shove around.

Two West Coast Stars

The west coast is keeping an alert eye on the coming actions of its two favorite baseball sons. Their names are Joe DiMaggio of San Francisco and Ted Williams of San Diego, both reporting from the extensive domain of California.

DiMaggio, bothered by physical ailments, had an off year. Regarded as one of the great outfielders of all time, a brilliant artist, fielding, hitting and throwing, Joe finished with the worst season he has known in big league baseball. He fell back with many other big league stars who had been in war service.

Williams, who looked as if he were on the verge of wrecking the entire American league without help up through mid-July, began to skid later and spent an unhappy fortnight during the 1946 World series. Despite this decline Williams batted well over .340, which left his all-time average still over .350.

Ulcers Stopped Joe

Anyway Joe and Ted were not what they had been in their former seasons. Only Dom DiMaggio came along to repair part of the damage, as far as California was concerned. Bobby Doerr and Johnny Pesky were two west coast features from further north. Joe DiMaggio wasn't feeling any too well when he reported for spring training. A few stomach ulcers didn't help him. After an early start at high speed, Joe began to fall away.

Special Occasion Blouses

TWO lovely, dramatically simple blouses for special dressed-up occasions. Each blouse has few pattern pieces, requires very little fabric. They can be made in a variety of fabrics—crisp white, soft pastels, novelty prints.

Pattern No. 8123 is for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14, 1 1/4 yards of 35 or 39-inch for either blouse. Send an additional twenty-five cents with your pattern order for the Spring FASHION. It's filled with ideas for smart spring-through-summer wardrobes. Free hat printed inside the book.

When you paper a room, mark the number of rolls of paper it took inconspicuously behind the door for use the next time.

If the collar of a man's shirt is badly worn, cut it off with a razor blade and use it for a pattern in cutting a new collar from the tail of the shirt.

Wash nylons after every wearing, since perspiration is detrimental to the delicate fibers. It's a good idea to wash new nylons before you wear them.

Sweep up broken glass carefully and empty it into a tin can. Use a damp cloth or moist cotton to pick up the tiny slivers.

'Building Bee' Solves Housing Shortage

HOLDREGE, NEB.—Harking back to the pioneer days, Holdrege is reviving the old-fashioned "building bee" in an attempt to solve its current housing problems.

Early settlers in the plains country always "pitched in" to help their neighbors build a home. D. C. Lefler, assistant manager of a local bottling works, recalled in suggesting the cooperative plan.

The idea was accorded a hearty response. The local newspaper printed coupons—one for persons willing to build under such a plan and another for persons willing to donate evening labor. Contractors volunteered to work in a supervisory capacity several evenings each week. Building men gave assurance that work can be done at night.

Desperate home-seekers are envisaging an end to their long quest for quarters.

Has this happened in Tinley before?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 9, was:

"MAN"

The Golden Text was:

"As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God" (Rom. 8: 14).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth... And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them" (Gen. 1: 1, 26, 27).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Question.—What is man? Answer.—Man is not matter; he is not made up of brain, blood, bones and other material elements. The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Matter is not that likeness. The likeness of Spirit cannot be so unlike Spirit... Whatever is material is mortal. To the five corporeal senses, man appears to be matter and mind united; but Christian Science reveals man as the idea of God, and declares the corporeal senses to be mortal and erring illusions... Even though you aver that the material senses are indispensable to man's existence, or entity, you must change the human concept of life, and must at length know yourself spiritually and scientifically" (pp. 475, 477, 359).

FARM VETS MAY ASK FREE TRACTOR INSTEAD OF AUTO

The law providing automobiles for World War II veterans who lost a leg, or the use of a leg, in the service has been amended to permit such veterans, if engaged in farm work, to apply for tractors, trucks, riding plows and kindred appurtenances in substitution for pleasure cars, it has been announced by Wm. R. McCauley, Illinois rehabilitation chairman of the American Legion. In either case, the government will finance the purchase up to $1,600. Deadline for filing applications is June 30.

GETCHELL SAYS ILLINOIS SETS U. S. LEGION PLAN

A 2,600 mile automobile tour of the south, following similar trips to the east and west, has convinced Douglass
 D. Getchell, state senior vice-commander of the American Legion that Illinois sets Legion program patterns for the nation.

"Due to the large numbers of World War II veterans joining the Legion," Getchell said, "our membership program, as well as many other major programs, are being adopted by many departments throughout the nation. Our Legion college program for
 W. W. II Post Commanders is spreading to every state.

"This year's membership quota of 300,000 by August 15, opening day of our state convention in Chicago", Getchell added, "is rapidly becoming a reality. Our present 1947 paidup membership already has reached 174,000.
 The 1946 calendar year closed with 223,782 members."

Getchell is state membership chairman of the Legion."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Mystery of the Rocking Chair

Ma Hoskins has a favorite rocking chair that's worn and shabby, with a noisy creak. Pa Hoskins has listened to that squeak for thirty years ... and he decided to do something about it. So he bought a new rocker, and hid the other in the barn.

Ma allowed as how grateful she was ... but when Pa missed her one afternoon, he heard a familiar sound that led him to the barn. There was Ma rocking happily in her old chair—squeak ... squeak.

No need to tell you how Pa felt.

Quick as a wink he hid the new rocker and then brought Ma's old chair back to the house. Now when he hears that squeak, he looks at the mellow glass of beer he's drinking and says to himself: "She's just as entitled to her small pleasures as I am."

From where I sit, that's one of the reasons the Hoskinses are the happiest, oldest-married, peace-fulest-folks in our town.

CHEVROLET

Again in 1946 ...

FIRST IN SALES!

FIRST IN CAR SALES—FIRST IN TRUCK SALES
FIRST IN COMBINED CAR AND TRUCK SALES!

The final registration figures are in, and again in 1946 America purchased more Chevrolet cars—more Chevrolet trucks—more Chevrolet cars and trucks combined—than any other make, despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of the year! A magnificent tribute to Chevrolet production efficiency, as well as to the dollar value of Chevrolet products! It's the best proof you can possibly have that you're wise to choose Chevrolet, the only cars giving BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST, and the only trucks rating as THRIFT-CARRIERS FOR THE NATION! True, there still aren't enough new Chevrolets to go around, but highest popular demand means higher dollar value, just as highest production means quicker delivery of your new car or truck. Are pleased to announce that at last we are able to supply the needs of the public in lumber and building materials. Although we do not have a full line of materials for home construction, we do have nearly all sizes and dimensions of sheathing, some roofing, and millwork, nails and many other "hard to get" items.

We regret that, heretofore, due to our construction of GI homes, we have been unable to supply our customers' needs, but we hope to have an ever-increasing stock, and that soon we will be in a position to furnish all materials from roof to cellar.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Loan Amendments

Veterans' administration has announced that the 4 per cent gratuity payments made by VA to the credit of veteran borrowers, under terms of the G.I. bill loan provisions, are exempt from federal income tax and, in addition, all interest paid on loans guaranteed or insured under the amended law may be listed as a deduction by the veterans regardless of whether or not part of the interest actually was paid with the gratuity.

As of January 1, a total of more than 50 million dollars in such payments had been made by VA for credit to the loan accounts of about 518,000 veterans. Of this amount, approximately 10 million dollars was disbursed under the original law and 40 million dollars under the amended act now in force.

Through January this year VA had approved, for guarantee or insurance, nearly 640,000 loans to veterans for homes, farms and business purposes. Total principal amount of these loans exceeds $3,421,000,000 with aggregate government guarantees of $1,585,000,000. Of the approved loans, 565,000 were for homes, 22,500 for farms and 52,000 for business.

Questions and Answers

Q. I wonder if I am entitled to any pay from the government. I volunteered for service on February 10, 1941, and was discharged July 15, 1941. I was stationed at Joseph T. Robinson camp at Little Rock, Ark., in the 134th infantry. I was discharged because of my health with an honorable discharge. Am I entitled to anything such as mustering-out pay or terminal leave pay?—R. A. C., Chicago, Ill.

A. On the information in your letter, you possibly may be entitled to mustering-out pay but not to terminal leave pay. The latter apparently would depend upon whether or not you had a pre-induction furlough, which you likely did, so you would not have served a minimum of six months. You would be entitled to all benefits of the G.I. bill. Although the original law provided for mustering-out pay only to veterans discharged after December 7, 1941, some changes in regulations have been made. For your mustering-out pay, contact the finance officer of your discharge center or write direct to the Finance Division of the Adjutant General's office, War Department, Washington 25, D. C.

Q. I am writing to you about some back payments of mine. My husband and I were married on June 13, 1944, and I didn't receive a check until August 11, 1944. Can I get the back time and, if so, to whom shall I write? Can servicemen get their terminal leave bonds cashed soon?—J. M. B., Charlottesville, Va.

A. If you are referring to allotment checks, first determine whether the money was taken from your husband's check prior to August. If so, write to the Office of Dependency Benefits, U. S. Army, 4200 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Mo. No terminal leave bonds cannot be cashed for five years at present. Several bills are before congress, however, which would provide for payment in cash.

Q. My husband was in the army 16 months and he would like to get a G.I. loan. He was in to see about it last week at a small town bank. Then they wrote they were not interested. How is it that some fellows who did nothing can get a G.I. loan? We have some stock and machinery which would mostly cover the amount he would like to borrow. Can you tell us what the matter?—Mrs. A. H. C., Beavertown, Pa.

A. Under the terms of the G.I. law as now in force, loans must first be approved by the bank or other lending agency which makes the loan. You might try another bank or it is possible that you might obtain such a loan from the nearest office of Farmers Home corporation.

Q. Can you tell me whether or not there is a veterans' hospital in Utah?—A. L. B., Echo City, Utah.

A. Yes, there is a 158-bed general medical hospital in Salt Lake City. A new and larger hospital is scheduled for construction there.

Q. I was an employee of the interior department and stationed in Denver when I went into the army. I have received my honorable discharge and want to know what my rights are about getting my old job back. Can you advise me?—J. R. J., Masonville, Colo.

A. If you had a permanent position under civil service and obtained an honorable discharge, you are entitled to your old job back within 30 days after filing an application, or to a position of like seniority, status and pay, if you are still qualified to perform the duties.

Sulfur Omitted From Cattle Grub Powder Pyrophyllite, Tripoli Earth or Frinite Used

Here's something new on an old farm subject—cattle grub control. For years the livestock specialists have been recommending a combination of sulfur and derris powder for dusting on the backs of grubby cattle. Some of them still are recommending this combination, which had its origin in the U. S. bureau of entomology.

What's new? Well, the bureau revised the formula during the war. Derris powder is still in the formula (it contains rotenone, the grub killing agent), but sulfur is out. Sulfur had no value as a grub killer—it served only as a diluent for derris, which contains the rotenone that does the job.

The bureau now recommends that the dust for grubs be made of one part derris (containing 5 per cent rotenone) and two parts of either tripoli earth, pyrophyllite or frinite.

The reason sulfur was taken out is that the sulfur particles become electrified when applied to the animal's back. As a result, they stick to the hair instead of settling down to the skin and into the grub holes. The new materials designated for mixing with derris do not have this drawback.

Mail Storage Box

A Texas rancher thought up this idea to keep mail order packages as well as letters out of the wet weather.

An old oil drum is used as the base. The opening in the mail box base was cut out with an electric arc welding machine, using the carbon arc. Then, hinges were welded to the drum and the cut-out section, as shown in the sketch, provided a door.

Packages placed in this old drum will remain dry until they are picked up.

Wins 'Ton of Gold' Award

Dinah Lady, winner of the "Ton of Gold" award.

Dinah Lady, 750-pound Jersey, owned by Walter Welkner, Jacksonville, Fla., recently announced as the "Ton of Gold" award winner of the American Cattle club, for having produced 3,121 pounds of butterfat in a 48-month period, during which time she produced four calves.

Welkner has been credited with maintaining as good a permanent pasture as can be found. In addition to grass, the cattle feed on lespedeza and Italian rye.

Molasses Fed Young Pigs for Fast Gain

Results of tests at Hawaii university show that a ration containing 20 per cent molasses proved economical for pigs from weaning to a weight of 70 pounds. Above 20 per cent, both the rate of gain and efficiency of feed utilization decreases markedly.

Work at Wisconsin showed that 10 per cent molasses was equal in value to corn on the basis of total digestible nutrient.

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Jill McFarlane, whose father, Richard, disappeared in World War I, falls in love with Lieut. Spang Gordon. She is upset to find that her brother, Ric, has fallen in love with Sandra Calvert, a divorcee. During her absence, Richard returns from the dead and visits her mother, Julia. He is using the assumed name of Captain Mackey and is stationed at the same camp as Ric. Julia is heart sick. Richard tells Ric he knew his father in France, and later threatens Sandra with exposure of an illegal divorce if she doesn't leave Ric alone. Julia, her father-in-law, John I., and Jill are horrified when they get a letter from Ric announcing his marriage. Sandra will live with them.

CHAPTER XV

Julia said, "Jill—think. Ric is going out—to fight, for us. If he loved this woman enough to marry her, the least we can do for Ric is to make her welcome."

Jill's face was stony. "I love Ric. He's my brother. But when he sends a female tramp here to live with his mother it's too much!"

John I. had come bumbling up behind them. "Confounded young puppy!" he snorted. "He's got about as much use for a wife as I have."

"It's this war. It's that feeling of desperate haste they all have, that they must crowd a lifetime of living into a few weeks or a few days," Julia said. "She can't be the dreadful creature that Jill thinks she is, she wouldn't have appealed to Ric."

"I saw her, I tell you! I had lunch with her."

"Why doesn't he send her to her own people?" John I. wondered.

"Probably she hasn't any. Probably they threw her out, long ago. If you're going to take me to town, Dooley, we'd better go. The telegraph office closes at nine."

"Go up and put on something else then. You certainly can't go to town in a negligee and nothing much under it. Tell Mamie to help you with the zippers. I'm still shaking all over."

Julia dropped on the long seat in the hall. Every inch of her body was cramped and cold. Her throat ached intolerably.

She said, "Should I have told Richard about Ric, John I.? After all, Richard is his father. He might have found an opportunity to talk to Ric. He might have saved him from this folly."

"They're both soldiers. Soldiers go where they're sent. Richard may be in Africa by this time."

"John I., I can't bring myself to turn Ric's wife away from his home! Where would I have been in that other war if you had cast me off?"

"It was you took me in, Dooley. I was a homeless old man, living in a hotel."

"You took care of us for years, till we could make this place pay. Perhaps this is the way I must pay back—to pass that help along. I wish I could change Jill's attitude. She's so determined when she's angry and upset."

John I. lit his pipe, puffed it slowly.

"You and I aren't so young any more, Dooley. You're young, compared to me, but you've lived long enough to know that things pass. Maybe she won't like it here." He chuckled. "Could be she wouldn't like it here at all. You just relax some ways, and get tough other ways. Ric's done a lot of bragging about his family, like as not, and she thinks you're a wealthy woman. Well, don't be wealthy when she's around."

"How can I be wealthy, when we both know that if they put low ceiling prices on hogs this year, we won't make a penny?"

"If she does come—if Jill doesn't head her off, put on your seediest clothes and get her up at six o'clock in the morning. Tell Mamie to churn all the cream, and we'll live on country victuals—turnips will be ready soon, I looked at them today. I can be plenty tiresome, too, if I put my mind on it. Any old man gets to be windy. I'll talk her to death."

A Phone Call
From Richard

"John I., you're priceless!" Julia smiled again, reached for his hand, as Jill came pelting down the stairs.

"Ready?" Julia said. "I still don't approve of this, remember, Jill."

"It's my responsibility, Dooley. I'll sign my own name to the wire."

"I'll get the keys," Julia got up slowly. And just then the telephone rang sharply and long.

"I'll get it," Jill sprang to the receiver. Then she turned back with an odd look. "It's long distance—calling you, Dooley. Maybe she isn't coming after all."

"It could be Ric, Jill. I can't say cruel things to Ric—I can't!" She sat down at the instrument. She said, "Hello, yes, this is Mrs. Richard McFarlane," and instantly all the color drained out of her face, and the receiver trembled in her hand.

The voice that came over the wire said, "Dooley, is that you?"

Richard! Richard was calling, and she could not let Jill know.

She said, "Yes, this is Mrs. McFarlane," stiffly, formally.

Richard's voice came again. "Dooley, I've seen the boy. He didn't know me, of course. I haven't told him anything. You've heard from him, today?"

"Yes," She had to hold her lips stiff, keep her face calm because John I. and Jill were watching her. "Yes, Captain, I heard from him today. He told me that he had been married."

"That's why I'm calling you, Dooley. I wanted you to know that I did everything I could. As soon as I suspected that he had this reckless marriage in mind, I had him up before the board and arranged for his immediate transfer, but I was too late."

"It's an impossible marriage, you think?"

(Oh, Richard, Richard, why are we talking like this? We're Ric's father and mother! And we must speak to each other like formal strangers!)

But a little warmth lightened her wretchedness. Richard had tried to save Ric. Richard had not betrayed himself. It helped a little to be able to believe again in some small nobility in Richard.

"Yes, this is Mrs. McFarlane."

Richard said, "It's a rotten marriage. She won't do, Dooley. She's no good. I knew her in the islands. I don't know just what I can do, but I'm going to try to do something."

"But, she's coming here. That was in the letter."

"Dooley, do the best you can for the present, will you? And trust me? I know I haven't the right to ask it, but I'm going to try to do something about this. Yes, she's coming there. She's already on the way."

"Then I suppose there's nothing we can do? But thank you so much for calling, Captain." She wanted to cry. "Thank you, Richard! Thank you for trying to be a father to your son at last!" But Jill was listening. Jill must not suspect.

Richard said, "Wait, Dooley. I just wanted to tell you. Don't worry. He'll be all right. He's a fine looking boy. He's like you. He isn't going to be like his father. He'll outgrow this foolishness."

"Oh, I hope so!" She said, "Good-by," almost in a gasp, and hung up. She turned to the others. "There's no use sending any message, Jill. She's already on her way. That was—one of the captains at Ridley Field. He said he tried to have Ric transferred in time to prevent this, but he was too late."

"So, that's that! The next move then," Jill set her chin, "is to convince this Sandra person that Buzard's Hill isn't the place she wants to live."

"But surely we can meet this situation with some grace? After all," Julia protested, "we're still McFarlanes."

"What is it worth to be a McFarlane?" Jill cried. "Ric's a McFarlane! She'll be a McFarlane, too. Dooley, if you go soft on us now, I swear I'll tell her that you're a mental case! I'll tell her that we're too tenderhearted to put you in a sanitarium!"

Making Plans
For Sandra

Julia began to laugh hysterically, tears running down her face. Her throat convulsed, her teeth chattered, she shuddered and pressed her hands to her face, letting tears pour out between her fingers.

Jill looked frightened. "Dooley—Dooley, don't! Stop it this minute! I didn't mean a word of it. Dooley, I'm going to put you to bed right now. You've had enough for one woman to bear in a day. Grandfather and I will take care of everything. Dooley, if you don't stop crying, I'm going to begin screaming myself, in a minute."

"I'm — stopping," gulped Julia, swallowing the ragged sobs that tore at her. "I—don't know why I went to pieces like this. I never do cry. I haven't cried in years!"

"I could kill Ric for doing this to you! He lied to me, when I went down there. I was furious at him. But—to do a thing like this, not to have any pride for his family—Please, Dooley, don't begin again. Come upstairs with me. I'll get you some hot milk and a sedative tablet."

She followed Jill meekly. She lay on her bed, where the dying light of September dusk came through the branches of the great trees. She drank whatever Jill brought her, she was grateful for the cool cloth laid over her eyes. She was aware of John I. in the room, felt his worried eyes upon her, wanted to comfort him and was too numb. She did not talk, because her spinning brain was so full of cries that must not escape her lips. Because her ears were hearing Richard's voice again, calling to the old ache within her, touching that old tenderness that had never healed.

"Dooley, trust me!"

(Oh, Richard, Richard, why did you come now, so tragically too late? When he needed you, when he was little, when I was so alone, where were you then, Richard? He had no father to teach him honor, no one to teach him to be strong. Now it's too late, Richard, forever too late!)

It was with trepidation that Julia met the train next afternoon.

She had got Ric's room ready that morning. She had impressed upon Mamie that Mrs. Richard McFarlane, Jr. would be tired when she arrived, and it would be kinder not to cook cabbage or anything else that smelled up the house. She had talked to John I.

"If she should turn out to be a nice person, John I., do try to restrain Jill a little, will you? I do hope we can meet this situation as nice people."

"Jill and I will be so nice you'll admire us," the old man promised. "Only don't you get in our way."

That smudge of smoke down the shimmering V of the rails, was it another cloud that would lie darkly over her heart? She walked out to the track. She set her face in her best imitation of a welcoming smile.

"Don't you dare dress up, Dooley," Jill had warned.

And Julia had countered, dryly, "You're still here, Jill? I thought you were leaving us forever, if Ric's wife entered this house?"

"I decided that it would be criminal to desert you. You're such a softy, Dooley, that you'd let her walk all over you," Jill said. "I'll give her two weeks. But if she's still hanging around after that, I may go to Washington and get a job. Boots Palmer knows a congressman."

"All right, Jill. But try to be a lady for those two weeks. After that I won't raise any objection, whatever you want to do."

Perhaps, Julia was thinking as she watched the engine thunder toward her, Sandra wasn't too happy either. Perhaps she had let love rush her off her feet, and now she was being shifted off on people she did not know, whom she might suspect did not want her. But would a woman who had been married before be swept off her feet by a boy? Jill could be wrong after all. This might be a girl whom Ric had met later. She held to that hope till the train ground to a stop, then surrendered it, resignedly.

Sandra Arrives
At the Farm

That had to be Sandra getting off. Julia's heart gave a sick flop. Small, blonde, no girl for all the soft curls, the delicate make-up. The face under the clever hat had been written upon grimly and a bit cruelly by life.

Julia went forward. "You must be Sandra? I'm Richard's mother."

She felt that slow blue gaze travel over her, moving anxiously, but the voice, too young and limpid for that throat, cried, "How nice of you! I was afraid you might not get my telegram."

"It came this morning. I'll have some one see to your bags. Are all these yours?"

"They do look a frightful lot, don't they? That's because since the war began I've had no real home. I've lived in a trunk. I have a trunk, too. Do you think it could be here?"

"We'll ask." Moving across the platform, Julia felt the impact of watching eyes upon her. The eyes of women she knew well, women who knew to a day how old Ric was, and she knew that they were seeing, too, with pitiless, female clarity, that for all the illusion of youth Sandra Calvert had achieved, artifice had put up a losing battle with time. It would be all over town in no time that Ric McFarlane had married a peroxide old hag, she was certain.

She said, "I'm so sorry we have to take you out in the station-wagon, but we've put up the cars for the duration."

Poinsettia Holds Beauty

The Christmas poinsettia will hold its beauty longer if it is kept where the temperature is about 60 to 65 degrees and where it will get an hour or two of sunshine. It should be watered daily. If the flower pot of earth is about two quarts in size, a cup of water will not be too much. House plants generally need extra care during the months when heating plants are going full tilt, and should be watered a little every day.

Milk Industry

In addition to fresh milk, now much more widely used than in pre-war days, the country's 58-billion-quart yearly supply goes into butter, cheese, ice cream and a wide variety of other foods. Milk and the other dairy products create an output valued at approximately 7 billion dollars.

Three-Time Capital

Philadelphia has been the capital of the country under three different governments, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It was the capital of the United Colonies until 1781, capital of the United States.

Arthritis Isn't New

Not only is arthritis a disease which attacks all races from the tropics to the polar regions, but it is a malady older than man, dating long before recorded history. Certain types of zoological origin are found in the skeletons of dinosaurs and in the bones of prehistoric reptiles. It is estimated that the disease existed six million years ago. Traces of it are found in the Ape Man of two million years ago and in the bones of royal Egyptian mummies.

'Soften' Room

If a room is "dead" add metal fixtures just enough to tune up the sound. Hardness of surface aids in making rooms noisy, and this is always likely to occur where smooth, hard wall and ceiling linings are employed, as is the case in what is known as the whispering gallery at St. Paul's.

Siamese Are Farmers

Most Siamese live by farming. Heavy rains carry rich silt that is deposited by floods on the rice-growing plains along the MeNam river. Typical villages of 10 to 80 families line its banks.

Vegetable Omelet

A vegetable omelet makes a tasty dish for home supper. Either fresh or home-canned peas, corn, spinach and beans are delicious. They may also be used in combination, an excellent means of using up leftover vegetables.

Best Time for Mulches

Most mulches should be applied after the ground has frozen a little. If a mulch is put on earlier, rodents may make their nests in it. Then they are likely to feed upon the crowns or stems of the plants.

Rail Wages

In 1945 the employees of the American railroads received in wages 41 cents out of every dollar of gross revenues. The stockholders received in dividends 3 cents out of each dollar.

Landscape Plantings

Native highbush blueberry, red cedar and common juniper are among the common wild plants that may be used in landscape plantings on the home grounds.

Protect Shrubbery

Snow sliding from the roofs of houses will break down unprotected shrubbery. A sloping board placed over the plants will keep this from breaking the branches.

Clean Houseplants

An occasional washing with warm water and soap will keep most houseplants clean and attractive and will discourage insect pests.

Get Most From Vegetables

To get the most good from vegetables, eat some raw, some cooked; cook quickly; use all the juices; store to keep them crisp and plump.

Lark Not a Lark

The meadowlark is not really a lark. It belongs to the species that includes American blackbirds and American orioles.

EDUCATIONAL

more competent people. This means raising teachers' salaries to a level comparable with that of other professions of lengthy preparation.

Some one must be able to make us understand that no matter how much a good teacher is paid, it can never be enough, while anything paid to a poor teacher is far too much. Why are we willing to allow teachers with emergency certificates to teach and pay them salaries almost equal and in some cases equal to people who have made it a life work? Why haven't we paid enough in the past so as to keep people in the profession who really desired to be in it? Emergency certificated teachers, as a whole, can't be expected to contribute much to the profession and welfare of the schools.

Human lives are enlarged, inspired, made more capable and strong, or left stunted, warped, aimless; and ineffective by the teachers in their early years. The real teachers left in our schools are there because they love to watch boys and girls grow and flower under their guidance. But there are too few such teachers, and we ought to be ashamed of ourselves to treat them as we do.

Yes, education in America is in the doldrums. It is a crisis in our national existence, the efforts of which will touch every man, woman and child among us.

Specific action by each citizen is essential to stop the descending levels of education and retain in our American schools teachers qualified for the high responsibility of training our youth.

State Library Aid Available To Groups

Springfield, (Special). —Community groups seeking to establish library services in their areas even though tax funds are not available at present for the purpose today received encouragement from Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett, who advised them that the assistance of the Illinois State Library is available.

Secretary Barrett, who is also state librarian, reported a growing interest among women's clubs and other local groups in sponsoring library service in communities not having easy access to a tax supported public library.

Services which women's groups, civic clubs, and other local organizations may obtain from the Illinois State Library include assistance in selection of materials and equipment, arrangement of the physical set up of the library headquarters, preparation of an operating budget, and preparation of gift books for loan purposes. In addition, the Illinois State Library loans a supplemental collection of books and gives a brief training course on library methods and techniques to the volunteers who will conduct the library.

Atomic Power—For Healing

PITTSBURGH, PA. — Business end of the wizard-like, new cyclotron at the University of Pittsburgh, which will harness atomic forces for the peacetime use of mankind in medical research. Already experimented with in treating cancer and leukemia, the cyclotron is considered to have greater healing possibilities than the X-ray and to open vast, unexplored fields to medical progress. Technician shows with pointer the poles of huge 100-ton electromagnet, between which atomic forces are brought into play. Circular tanks hold cyclotron oil developed by Gulf research to dissipate heat in 18 miles of copper wire coiled about magnet.
